COMPANY SNAPSHOT

Industry innovator Asuan is pleased to “meet” you! Or, at least, to help increase the efficiency of your food-production facility with its customized red-meat processing systems and box-handling systems. These systems play a key role in food production, as they integrate machinery and human labor to convert raw materials into edible products, and then sort, package, and distribute boxes of product. Thanks to the extensive industry experience of Asuan’s management team, the company has developed superior templates that are customized as per client needs through a rigorous consultation process. The market is robust: increasing global demand for protein-rich diets has forced producers to invest in more efficient production systems. The market for food-processing machinery is expected to reach US$53 billion by 2016. Asuan has grown strategically since its founding in 2004; market-leading clients like JBS and SuKarne have facilitated regional expansion into markets including Brazil, Argentina, and Mexico.
