COMPANY SNAPSHOT

Tatiana is determined to demonstrate the transformative power of architecture in enriching communities. Focusing on uplifting previously neglected spaces in Mexico's overcrowded urban centers and narco-trafficking plagued rural areas she founded her own architecture studio in 2004. Her designs are 100% sustainable in terms of water and waste management and 40% sustainable in terms of energy use. They range from inner city housing blocks to a recently completed botanical garden in Sinaloa. Building on her growing success and recognition, Tatiana is committed to turning her firm into a scalable business with increasing global recognition. She has also launched a sustainable nonprofit organization, MX.DF, to focus urban research and address Mexico's most pressing problems.
